

BIOGRAPHY

Eric B. Stone, M.D.
Associate Administrator/ Vice President Clinical Operations
Riverside Regional Medical Center

Eric B. Stone is the Associate Administrator and VP of Clinical Operations for Riverside Regional Medical Center, Newport News Virginia. He provides physician leadership as part of the leadership dyad team and co-management for a Tertiary 450-bed/Level 2 Trauma Center serving Hampton Roads and greater Tidewater community. Dr. Stone was born at Grand Forks AFB, ND and spent his childhood in various locations as part of an Air Force family. He entered the Air Force through an AFROTC commission in 1987 and graduated Magna Cum Laude and Phi Beta Kappa from Baylor University with a BS degree in Biology that same year. In 1991, he graduated Alpha Omega Alpha and received his Doctor of Medicine degree from the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences at Bethesda, MD. After serving in a variety of clinical, educational, operational, and executive medicine roles over around the world during a 25-year Air Force career, Dr. Stone retired and re-connected to his primary care roots as a front-line Family Physician with Riverside Medical Group in serving the community in Gloucester Virginia before taking his current role with Riverside Regional Medical Center.

Dr. Stone is married to the former Sharon Lynnette Mason from Albuquerque, New Mexico. They have two grown daughters. He continues to practice Family Medicine in Gloucester, VA and enjoys gardening and hobby farming.
